THE FRIGATE CONSTELLATION. The following paragraph, received since the intelligence in the preceding columns was prepared, would seem to prove conclusively that the reported disaster, to the Constellation is without any foundation whatever: From the Philadelphia Chronicle.

There can be no truth in the report of the loss of the Constellation frigate, which seems to have excited a strong sensation both here and in New York. We have now before us a letter written on board the ship of the Isl a letter written on board the ship of the Isl and of Cerigo, on the 18th of last October, by Mr. Writinan Barclay, of this city, whose jest in the frighte is that of Captain's Clerk. The account of the disaster was brought to Trieste on the 27th, from Smyrma, by a vessel which had made the passage of 16 days. Mr. Barclay says in hit letter, which is addressed to one of his nearest relations:—

Here I am alive and well, we shift-tanding all the horrible tales you will probably bare heard, by the time this reaces home, of our having been dismasted and dipwrecked our having been dismasted and dipwrecked in the equinoctial gale of the poli of September last, with this fifting action to the story, that those of usymno accred from the wreck, died afterwards of the liegue.
